WELLS & CANN

INVESTMENT PROFILE

Wells & Cann connects potential investors with selected opportunities in the international metals and commodities market, with a particular focus on copper and gold. Founded by Jack Wells and Michael Cann, with a presence in Dubai, London and Dar es Salaam, our business combines direct transaction experience with established supplier relationships and international trade networks.

We create bespoke investment frameworks around individual trade opportunities, aligning expectations from the outset. Each framework sets out the commercial structure, funding requirements, intended use of capital, transaction milestones, payment arrangements and proposed profit-sharing terms. This gives investors a clear understanding of how their participation supports the transaction and how returns would be generated.

Transparency is central to our approach. We bring together the available supporting documentation, identify the parties and their responsibilities, and establish procedures for independent testing, verification, logistics and reporting. Where appropriate, funding stages are linked to agreed milestones and supporting evidence, giving investors visibility as a transaction progresses.

Our role extends beyond introducing an opportunity. We help coordinate the sourcing, documentation, warehousing and shipment arrangements needed to move a physical commodity transaction towards completion, maintaining direct communication between investors and the commercial team.

Every opportunity is assessed on its own merits, with its commercial assumptions, risks and dependencies clearly outlined. Returns depend on successful execution and market conditions and are not guaranteed.

At Wells & Cann, we aim to build lasting investor relationships through clear expectations, accountable transaction management and a shared understanding of the opportunity from funding through to settlement.
